Dale Rogers Training Center (DRTC) is the oldest and largest community vocational training center in the Southwest. DRTC has served Oklahoma since 1953. It trains and employs approximately 1,000 persons with disabilities a year. Each card features a design created by an individual with a disability at DRTC. Art created by Woody © 2019 90-1

Ordering from DRTC not only supports the agency, but it also provides jobs for the hard working clients we provide opportunities for every day.
About DRTC

Dale Rogers Training Center (DRTC):
celebrating 66+ years of service.

DRTC has transformed from its humble beginnings in a dairy barn on an unpaved road to one of the most award-winning and accredited agencies of its kind in the Southwest. The nonprofit agency trains and employs approximately 1,000 teenagers and adults with disabilities every year. Combined, those individuals earned $5.2 million in wages annually.

Today, DRTC has many diverse businesses and training programs: 91% of all clients are in the community, at an enclave, a trial job, or a job at local businesses; the remaining 9% work at full wage making framing or awards, or commensurate wages performing subcontract work.

While we accept donations, we’d really love to have you as a customer. By expanding our product line, you have more options to purchase Prairie Spices, photo frames, awards, wearables and promotional items. DRTC is 87% self-sufficient; help us reach 100%.

Ordering from DRTC not only supports the agency, but it also provides jobs for the hardworking clients we provide opportunities to every day.

We are looking forward to serving advocates like you for the next 66 years.

Connie Thrash McGoodwin, M.Ed.
Executive Director
DRTC’s Board of Directors confidently approved the purchase of a new eight-station screen printing press, allowing the nonprofit agency to continue its entrepreneurial push into the 21st century. “We’ve been providing apparel to schools, churches, businesses and others through our Promotional Items division, but the new equipment means we are moving screen printing in-house,” said Mark Claunch, Sales and Business Manager. “This provides more jobs for people with disabilities while passing on additional savings to DRTC’s valued customers!”
